Nevaeh (2008) and older brother Dajuan (2004) are adorable siblings with much love and energy to inspire those around them. We met up with this dynamic duo at Chuck E. Cheese in Ladera Heights, California for some good old-fashioned and loud arcade fun!

Dajuan is a respectful and engaging young boy who expresses himself well and has a mellow disposition that makes him instantly liked by other children. His easy-going spirit allows him to fit in just about anywhere – and baby sister Nevaeh is never far behind, looking to fit in, too. Dajuan is very close to his sister and is not the typical “parentified” child you might see growing up in foster care – Dajuan has a lot of patience and often makes time for teaching moments to show Nevaeh how to do things.

Nevaeh is a bundle of joy and loves to laugh and giggle. Just like her brother, she’s a very easy-going kid. Nevaeh’s not quite old enough for school yet so she waits for her brother to return home each day so they can play and so she can learn a little bit about what he learned that day in school.

To say that Dajuan and Nevaeh share a sibling bond is an understatement and we are determined to find a family that has the room in their heart and home for this brother-sister sibling set. These two are budding “people persons” and are likely to do well in just about any family constellation – even one that includes occasional “honorary” members in the form of a mouse (Mickey, Chuck E. etc)!
